Year Round School Study Group Named

Mrs. Lazlo Toldi and Mrs. Walter Spear who have children at River, Middle and Carmel High schools were the two parents named last night at the Carmel School Board meeting, to the study group which will look into the possibilities of a year-round school program as a way of avoiding the necessity to expand the High School and Middle School.

Mr. Walter McCloud, head counselor at San Francisco City College until 1943 when he moved to Carmel, was the person not a parent, to be named. His two daughters went through Carmel schools.

Mrs. Phillis Davies who teaches Spanish at the High School, Mrs. Betty Roth, a teacher at Carmelo School, were the teachers chosen. Dr. Dan Yurkovitch was the administrator selected to round out the committee.

Klaumann Hosts FBI Meeting

Carmel Police Chief Clyde Klaumann will play host to the Annual Conference of the California Chapter FBI National Academy Associates to be held at the Holiday Inn May 26-29.

The police officers will have the opportunity to hear from a long list of impressive speakers, including Edward Montgomery, Pulitzer Prize winning feature writer for the "Examiner"; Rear Admiral Robert McNitt, Superintendent at the Navy School; Dr. Alex Sheriff, special consultant in education to Governor Reagan; FBI Special Agent William Griffith and many others.

Wednesday morning the officers will participate in a panel discussion headed by FBI agents Charles W. Bates, John Williams, Wesley Grapp and Robert Evans. There will also be a panel discussion on "Mob and Crowd Control" by police chiefs from Los Angeles, Berkeley and Oakland and captain of police from San Francisco. These men are very well qualified to speak on this subject in view of the riots and sit-ins in their respective cities.

An open afternoon will be provided Tuesday for the officers to enjoy golf, swimming and boating arranged especially for their recreation. They will have a barbecue Monday evening at the Hunt Club and a banquet Tuesday at the Holiday Inn.

Wednesday, Howard E. (Bud) Allen purchased the La Playa Hotel from Mr. Fred Godwin and picked up the lease held by Golden State Properties. Mrs. Allen is co-owner. Mr. Allen also owns the Sundial Court on Lincoln. His local business experience has included management of the Mark Thomas Inn, Hearthstone Restaurant and Pine Inn.

Robber Blasts Carmel Area With Dynamite

Carmel residents were puzzled Thursday afternoon when they felt two explosions less than 30 minutes apart. Adding to the puzzlement, water in many parts of Carmel ceased to flow. Everyone seemed to discount the activities as sonic booms and an inconvenient break in the water main.

Meanwhile, at the Crocker-

Dangerous Cargo

"We carried it like a baby," said Captain Bill Ellis after taking the cargo of dynamite, found undetonated in the Carmel Builder's Supply shed, to Sacramento for investigation.

Carmel Police Chief Clyde Klaumann sent Captain Ellis and Lieutenant Bob Fisher to the Capital to try to identify the source and uncover fingerprints on the explosive. The discovery of the ten sticks of dynamite was made the same day other blasts rocked Carmel and a robber held up Crocker Citizens Bank in Carmel Valley.

A blasting cap was still embedded in the dynamite when the police officers left for Sacramento. A shock or electrical transmission could have set off the dynamite being carried delicately in the rear seat of the patrol car. They took all the precautions including placing the explosive in a metal container filled with absorbent materials, and strapped seat belts around the container.

Unfortunately, no fingerprints were uncovered but, according to the police report, this is not unusual in view of the materials involved.

After everything was carefully investigated, Captain Ellis and Lieutenant Fisher took the explosives to Mather Air Force Base where it was turned over to the government for disposal.

Some time ago there were seven bombings in Contra Costa County where several telephone towers were toppled. Captain Ellis said, "There is similarity in their case with ours, and at present we think it might be connected."

Citizens Bank at the Mid-Valley Shopping Center, there were two men who knew exactly the cause and relationship between the explosions and the water break. They were a bank robber and his hostage.

At about 1:30 a man identified as being six feet tall weighing about 175 pounds with full sideburns and goatee sat in his white Plymouth Fury with hostage Robert Neuman, waiting until the bank patrons left and the coast was clear.

While waiting the thief told Neuman about the charges set and showed him a pistol on his hip as well as more dynamite in the car. Neuman, a Pacific Telephone employee, said he noticed in the glove compartment a container with "hand grenades" written on it.

With a pistol in one hand and a stick of dynamite in the other, the two entered the bank. The robber ordered Neuman to advise those in the bank that he wanted money or he would blow up the bank.

After taking about $3500, the robber and his captured companion left the bank and drove east on the Carmel Valley highway until they arrived at Miramonte Road. He allowed Neuman to escape and that's the last Neuman, or anyone else, saw of the bank robber.

The police had been notified by people at the bank and a net was thrown around the area . . . no results.

About a half an hour before the robbery was carried off, Carmel Police Chief Clyde Klaumann and several of his officers were down at the beach preparing for the possible tidal wave scheduled to hit the West Coast, a result of the earthquakes in Japan the previous day.

They were notified of the explosions and that afternoon had a visit from Arthur Willert from Carmel Builder's Supply. He carried with him ten sticks of dynamite, wrapped in friction tape, which Stanley Blankenship had discovered in the shed directly in back of the main office. Chief Klaumann was concerned that if this charge had detonated several lives would have been lost

"Send Me No Flowers" Hit At Studio Theatre

After seeing "Send Me No Flowers" last weekend, the Studio Theatre Restaurant can, without reservation, add this one to their long list of successful play productions.

Everything... the cast, set, lighting... blended to make "Send Me No Flowers" the comedy hit of the Studio Theatre season.

The comedy, directed by Don Osborn, is the story of a hypochondriac husband who, after overhearing his doctor speak of another patient, convinces his wife and neighbor that he is destined to die. Situation piles on situation until the very end.

Dick Vreeland, was really pathetic... not as an actor mind you, to the contrary, but as the husband who was certain of death. His eyes, though some at moments time reflecting laughter, for the most part showed George's want of sympathy.

Gianna Bell Beaven was the faithful wife who merely laughed at her husband's complaints... until almost too late. This marked Miss Beaven's second part and her first major role on the Peninsula. She was excellent and quite at ease throughout the entire production. Her anger, her sympathy appeared genuine.

Of course, Ed Shinbrot was never greater. In all his performances he never fit into a character better than this money hungry doctor in "Send Me No Flowers." A beautiful job.

Bob Lotz, the Texan whom the husband plans to have his wife marry after he is gone, took this character role and was able to make the weakest character in the play into something strong, an admirable accomplishment.

James Lancina portrayed the neighbor who drank to forget. Lancina delivered his lines on time, with reality. He was the only performer who did not constantly punch his lines straight toward the audience. Hurrah for you.

Milton Hayes, with his rather minor role as the cemetery plot salesman, came on stage, got the most from his lines, and dashed off. The result: applause for a stirring, hilarious performance.

Walter Rousseau played the delivery boy and in the dream sequence, the parasite. This was his acting debut and he handled his voice changes very well. Ruth Rankin doubled as a "Call Girl" and Miss Mason in the dreams.

The set, designed by Studio owner Robert Evans, Jr. was superb, probably his best on the Studio stage.

'The Happening' at MPC

"The Happening," described by Director Morgan Stock as "a conglomeration of all sorts of things—skits, songs, dances, light shows—you name it," will be Monterey Peninsula College's last dramatic offering of the spring semester.

Stock, says "The Happening" will happen May 23, 24 and 25 (Thursday, Friday, Saturday) and the following week on May 29, 30 and 31 (and June 1), 8:30 each evening in the MPC Little Theater-on-Campus.

A number of the "leading campus actors and directors" are doing their farewell stunts in "The Happening," according to Stock. Dave Allen, who will transfer in the fall to UCLA, has written several of the scripts and produced the light show, one of the high points of the evening. Rick Wolf, of Carmel another "old hand," will be acting in several of the scripts, and Sam Mercurio will be doing his "famous strip tease number" again.

Carmel's Wendy Grissim, who was Othello's Desdemona, "does quite a switch" when she plays a radio figure from Del Rio, Texas. The dancing chores will be handled by Andrea Fernandez, Cheryl Mitchum and Betty Waldrup.

Ronald Guillemette is assisting Stock in directing and Bob Evans is lighting design director.

Final word from Stock: "I should warn everybody that this is a happening and that anything may happen. If you are averse to loud music and flashing lights, come prepared with ear plugs and blinders. But by all means come."

Theatre Review

THE GRADUATE, interesting, if not completely compelling comedy.

GRAND PRIX... a beautiful film cinemagraphically speaking. Stars actually race at high speeds while filming this magnificent picture in 70 mm film. Full stereophonic sound adds to the impact.

YOURS, MINE AND OURS... a story based on Carmel's Beardsley family.

NO WAY TO TREAT A LADY... Rod Steiger enacts a mentally-ill person whose murders catch you off balance.

SECRET WAR OF HARRY FRIG... Paul Newman poses as a general in a World War II prison camp. Funny.

ELVIRA MADIGAN... "Perhaps the most beautiful movie in history"... New Yorker.

POOR COW... Married to one petty thief and in love with another, a young girl faces a seamy existence in an English slum.

GUESS WHO'S COMING FOR DINNER... A topical subject performed by an excellent cast. Sidney Poitier is the same character he always plays. It runs about 30 minutes long; but has received grand reviews.

Young Cast Scores In 'Noah' At Circle Theatre

A colorful, thought-provoking performance of "Noah," by French dramatist Andre Obey, opened last weekend at the Circle Theatre. The serious fantasy-comedy was directed by Charles Thomas, veteran director at all the theatres on the Peninsula.

Ramon Wilson, playing the title role, was immediately convincing as he attempted to establish communication with "The Lord," and sustained his character well throughout the play. His voluminous robes and long gray hair and beard falling from his bald head greatly contributed to the illusion of being an old patriarch; his voice in its maturity to the effect, although he is in his thirties. Mr. Wilson is a graduate of London's Royal Academy of Dramatic Art.

Betty Fowlston was perfect as "Mama." Like every mother, her job was to keep peace in the family which proved to be no less prone to fighting and bickering than most families.

Bill Johnson came over strong as Ham, the most belligerent and domineering of Noah's sons. He has a great voice and enunciation, and is a beautifully built boy. The colorful loin cloths and robes showed off his dark skin to perfection.

Gary Tao, another handsome and personable boy, played the part of Shem, and represented the Orientals in the family of man. Blonde Scott Wheeler, who has a delightfully personality, represented the Caucasian race.

Charming young girls, characters not so well-defined, were played by dark Cora Nubin, almond-eyed Sharleen Sakai and blond Kris Loop.

Wayne Kendall, played a most difficult role, that of "A Man" in his most frenzied and hateful aspect, the quality of bigotry.

The prissy Cow, played by Ruth Fry, was most amusing, with her mincing walk and expressive eyes. Scott Conway played the ferocious tiger; Ted Forbes, the Wolf; Mike Marks the meek Lamb; David Loop, the leaping Monkey; Ralph Forbes, a roaring Lion; and Bob Nixon, The Bear. Since these characters were so close, and since they did not talk, it was hard to think of them as realistic. They served, however, to point out that animals get along better than humans.

All the parts of the young people and animals were played by Peninsula teenagers.

The most effective and colorful costumes for the play were furnished by Adele Bramlet of Costume Bazaar, Monterey. The set design and staging was by Charles Thomas and Ruth Jordon Allan.

This is a play that children would enjoy, one of the few suitable for family viewing these days.

de Jong's Last Local Concert

by Rachel Morton, formerly critic of the Long Beach Independent-Press Telegram

Jan de Jong, Music Director of the Monterey County Symphony Orchestra, was given a standing ovation at the close of his last concert with this organization last week at the Sunset Auditorium.

The audience's prolonged applause and the orchestra's standing upon his entrance attested to the appreciation and high regard in which this young conductor is held.

The program was an ambitious one, though not one to appeal greatly to popular taste.

The polyphonic music of Lukas Foss' "A Parable of Death," proved as lugubrious as the subject. For accurate evaluation, "The Parable" should be heard many times. This was my first hearing.

A narrator, Nick Le Feuvre, Sr., of Carmel, read poetic commentaries selected from various poems of Rilke. These short readings were interspersed with dramatic choral and orchestral music. The tenor soloist linked the whole.

The fine singing of the Monterey Peninsula Choral Society made most effective the varying moods of the weird subject. Especially stirring was their singing of "By Spring Time — a pale blue Flower — the sprout of Death."

Tenor soloist, Orva Hoskinson from San Francisco, called in at the last moment to replace the indisposed Pat Daugherty, proved an excellent musician.

Another modern composer, Zoltan Kodaly, was heard in his "Psalmus Hungaricus," based on Psalm 55, written for tenor solo, Chorus, and Orchestra.

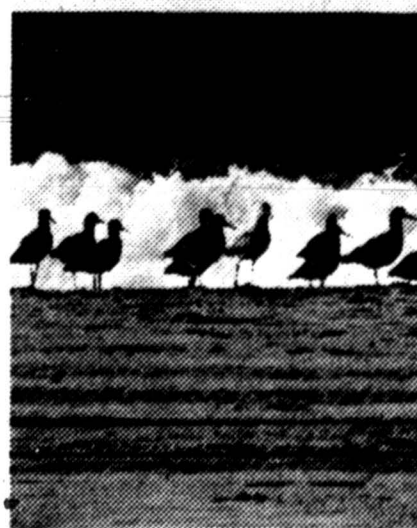

This was understandable music; music that sank in. It treated with reverence the Biblical subject, but was, nonetheless, strong and dramatic when the text required. How very beautiful was the music with the harp, the chorus and orchestra in "I will put my trust in Thee."

Beethoven's "Leonore Overture No. 3," which opened the program was given a fine reading by de Jong. He built up with verve the strong, exciting climaxes and kept restrained the dungeon quiet of Florestan's soliloquy. The off-stage trumpet-call came off without mishap.

How good it was to hear for the last number on the program the gorgeous music of a suite from the opera, "Der Rosenkavalier" by Richard Strauss.

How rollicking and gay were the opening bars; how nostalgic the Marchalin's aria; how lovely the music of the Waltz and the Presentation of the Rose; how heavy the music of Baron Ochs' lovemaking, and oh — how glorious was the trio music of the last act!

Mr. deJong and the Orchestra gave it a superb performance.

Woods & Carmelo Students Explore San Francisco

The Del Monte Express left Monterey last Friday with 277 youngsters, parents, grandparents, and teachers aboard. Kindergartners and 1st grade youngsters from Carmelo went as far as Watsonville where they were picked up by bus to visit the airport on the way back.

The 2nd, 3rd, and 4th grades from Carmelo, and 3rd and 4th grades from Woods went all the way to San Francisco where chartered buses took the children to Golden Gate Park. After a special showing at the Planetarium, they toured the Aquarium and the Museum of Natural History. This was followed by a brief tour of Golden Gate bridge and the waterfront area. The Del Monte returned them to Monterey at 8 o'clock in the evening.

Edwin L. McCurry, principal of both schools, 11 teachers, and parents, to the ratio of one for every six youngsters, accompanied the students.

Chief Scores At Park

Last week Tom Moreland, gardener at Devendorf Park, upheld the Leash Law in Carmel by encouraging a hippie to either put a leash on his dog or leave. After Tom was threatened with a "punch in the mouth" he informed the Police Chief of the violator.

Chief Clyde Klaumann went into the park and asked, "Whose dog is this?" No one claimed ownership. As the Chief was carrying the dog away he said, "If you see the owner tell him it'll cost $10 to get him out of the pound."

With this the real owner stood up.

The chief told him to pick the dog up and carry him up the hill to the Highway at Carmel High School and get home the same way he got to Carmel . . . by hitchhiking, incidentally.

A few minutes later Officer Del Wermuth came into the station, all smiles. He said, "I saw the funniest thing . . . a hippie walking up to the highway with a dog strapped around his neck."

This was not the only "dog" incident, the chief told us. He said he personally ran two more hippies and their animals out of the park. One was a Labrador Retriever. Labs are awfully heavy!

The 18th Annual Pebble Beach Concours d'Elegance will be held in one of the most beautiful spots in the world — the lawn between the terrace at Del Monte Lodge and the 18th green of the famous Pebble Beach Golf Links. WHAT'S DOING?

Mays, Hunt, Marichal—those are just a few of the names that I hear almost daily around our office. And it's no wonder, too, because we're one of the sponsors who are bringing you all the San Francisco Giants baseball games this year. So why not join us — be sure to have your radio tuned in to the Giants. Brought to you by Pacific Telephone.

Remember to vote in California's primary June 4.

Here's something that every parent should know. In an emergency, it's always quickest and best to dial direct to the police, fire department, or doctor. But for a youngster that might not be possible. So be sure your child knows how to dial "0" for help in an emergency. Our Operators are trained to do the rest.

One teacher to another: "Not only is he the worst behaved child in school, but he also has a perfect attendance record."

A secretarial school jointly sponsored by Pacific Telephone and the young adults for action is tentatively scheduled to begin on May 28th.

The classes will be held in Seaside on Tuesday and Thursday evening between seven and nine p.m.

All persons interested in attending are asked to call 394-8188 or 373-1988 for additional information.

Early Days of Mora and Burgdorff

Guests of the recent Adobe Tour in Monterey were treated to an excellent and comprehensive exhibition of the works of Jo Mora at Casa Serrano. Many people were reminded of another fine Mora creation, the stationary wooden figure of Father Serra, a Carmel landmark at North end of Dolores Street.

Since the summer of 1922, the gentle Father has greeted visitors to the old artists' colony, his tranquillity setting a tempo for relaxation in the hamlet of pine woods and cypress-ringed beaches. The statue stands in a tile-roofed wooden shrine flanked by redwood benches at the base. The Father's robes are soft blue-gray typical of his day; since amalgamation of the Franciscan order in 1884, their color has been changed to brown, according to historian Harry Downey of the Carmel Mission. Mr. Downey personally has often repainted the statue; he says there are so many layers of paint on it now, it would be impossible to be sure what kind of wood Jo Mora used, but probably it was redwood.

Recently the artist Ferdinand Burgdorff recalled that lumber for the shrine came from a pine tree he had cut from his Pebble Beach property to build a home. Jo Mora was his friend and neighbor, and the two men together chose the trunk, cleaned off its branches, and sawed pieces for Mora to use.

Ferdinand Burgdorff is still busy painting every day. At 87, he is one of the most prolific, dedicated artists the art colony has. A slight and agile man with high coloring and intense blue eyes, he is a familiar figure in Carmel. His first visit here was made on the advice of the poet George Sterling in 1908. He at once rented a lean-to kitchen for studio and slept under the stars and a pine tree. Since then, he has studied and painted throughout the world, but always has come back to live and work. As with Jo Mora, one of his favorite painting spots was the Southwest, where he worked with Fernand Lungren and Jimmy Swinnerton, and at one time rented a Hopi village studio just vacated by Mora and E. A. Burbank.

A handsome example of Burgdorff's work is currently on exhibit at the Carmel Museum of Art on Dolores Street. Painted in 1914, "Western Poplars" is a golden idyll of the quivering trees seen against an intense azure sky. The location was Sleepy Hollow Ranch, near San Anselmo, California. The trees were part of a mile-long approach to the ranch house owned by a wealthy San Francisco actor named Hotaling. His frequent houseguests were fellow Bohemians invited to enjoy the miles of golden hills. Hospitality was lavish — for instance, dinner cocktails were a blend of special wines flavored by cucumber.

Ferdinand Burgdorff did many paintings on the ranch. One (done for a San Francisco hotel) was so large he nailed his canvas from post to post of the fence, and ran back and forth to paint, much to the interest of cud-chewing cows lying all around him. During the Second World War, Mr. Burgdorff sent 35 of these warm, California landscapes to Army hospitals in the Arctic, and another 5 to others in Alaska. Sleepy Hollow Ranch has now been subdivided for houses.

Ansel Adams Weekend Inspires Photographers

"The photographic negative corresponds to a musical score, the print to the performance," said Ansel Adams at the Friends of Photography "event" at Sunset Cultural Center, Saturday morning. "Just as an artist never interprets a score the same way, each print is different."

Adams explained the zone system of subject, density and print values. He then went into the philosophic aspects of light and substance and point of view.

In the afternoon Adams showed a series of slides tracing the history of great photography and analysed how the aesthetic effects were obtained.

The following morning the large group of 75 or 80 members met at Pt. Lobos.

New Members of Art Association

Patricia Cunningham reports that three new members were accepted by the board of directors of the Carmel Art Association at its last meeting: Mr. William Timmins of Carmel, Mr. Joseph Burgess, Jr. of Carmel Valley, and Tonya L. Carpenter of Pacific Grove.

The Carmel Art Association on Dolores near Fifth, is a non-profit organization, owned by the artists who show their works. It is the oldest gallery in Carmel.

Food Tasting Festival for Camp Amigos

There will be a Food Tasting Festival in the Form of a Continental Dinner at St. Dunstan's Episcopal Church in Carmel Valley on Sunday, May 26 at 4:00 P.M. This unusual event is to benefit the newly organized integrated day camp, "Camp Amigos", for the 3rd, 4th and 5th grade youngsters of Seaside, Carmel and Carmel Valley. This camp will be held everyday from 10 until 3 at the All Saints' Day School in Carmel Valley, the last week of July and the first week of August. The program will include crafts, story telling, drama, group singing and recreation. There will be a day of swimming, a nature hike another time, a trip to the beach and other field trips.

To provide money, All Saints' in Carmel has already put on a Wine Tasting Benefit and now St. Dunstan's is coming up with the dinner called "It's a Small World" featuring casseroles, meat dishes and vegetables as well as desserts from countries all over the world. Do go out and enjoy a wonderful meal. Tickets are available at the door: 75c for children, $1.50 for adults and a family rate of $5.00. And you'll all be contributing to a worthwhile cause to make this summer a time of understanding and education, plus fun, for one hundred youngsters from our Peninsula.

St. Dunstan's has gotten out a small recipe book containing dishes supplied by ladies of both parishes and Party Plans is happy to give you four excellent examples of what will be served on Sunday, May 26 at 4:00 P.M. Reservations are not necessary.

Cottage Enchiladas

One 4-oz. can green chiles; 12 tortillas, canned or frozen; 1 cup dairy sour cream; 1 12-oz. carton (1 1/2 cups) cream-style cottage cheese; 1/2 t. salt; dash of pepper; 1/2 lb. sharp process American cheese, cut into 12 strips; 1 15-oz. can enchilada sauce.

Drain chiles; remove seeds, if desired; cut chiles in 12 strips. Cook tortillas according to package directions. Combine sour cream, cottage cheese, salt and pepper. Reserve 1/2 cup of the mixture; spoon remaining mixture onto tortillas. Top each with a strip of green chile and a strip of cheese. Roll up each tortilla; place seam-side down in a 12 x 7 1/2 x 2-inch baking dish. Combine reserved sour cream mixture and enchilada sauce; pour over tortillas. Bake in a moderate oven (350 F.) about 30 minutes or until well heated through and bubbly. Serves 6.

Gloria Stewart

Inside-Out Ravioli Casserole

One lb. ground beef; 1 medium onion, chopped (1/2 cup); 1 clove garlic, minced; 1 T. salad oil; 1 10-oz. package frozen chopped spinach; 1 1-lb. can spaghetti sauce with mushrooms; 1 8-oz. can (1 cup) tomato sauce; 1 6-oz. can (2/3 cup) tomato paste; 1/2 t. salt; dash of pepper; 1 7-oz. pkg. (2 cups) shell or elbow macaroni, cooked and drained; 1 cup shredded sharp process American cheese; 1/2 cup soft bread crumbs; 2 well-beaten eggs; 1/4 cup salad oil.

Brown first 3 ingredients in one T. salad oil. Cook spinach according to package directions. Drain, reserving liquid; add water to make 1 cup. Stir spinach liquid and next 5 ingredients into meat mixture. Simmer 10 min. Combine spinach with rest of items; spread in 13 x 9 x 2-inch baking dish. Top with meat sauce. Bake at 350 F. 30 minutes. Let stand 10 minutes before serving. Makes 8 hearty servings.

Gloria Stewart

French Chocolate Poundcake

Two sticks butter (1/2 lb.); 1 cup sugar; 1 1/3 cups sifted flour; 1 bar Ghiradelli (1/2 lb.) Eagle Sweet Chocolate; 5 eggs.

Melt chocolate bar in double boiler. Cream butter and sugar with wooden spoon until smooth. Add eggs one at a time. Cream together. Add melted chocolate. Blend in the flour until just mixed. Bake in small Angel food cake pan at 350 F. for 35 minutes. Cool. Keeps well in refrigerator.

This elegant chocolate poundcake originated in France. The French frown upon substitutions, so it is suggested, very firmly, the recipe will be followed exactly.

Marge Menzlik

Peanut Cake (Brazilian Bolo de Amendoim)

Three eggs; 1 cup sugar; 1 cup flour; 1/4 t. each, salt and baking soda; 1/2 cup, each, chopped dates, raisins, and peanuts.

Cream eggs and sugar together and sift in flour, salt and baking soda. Add fruit and peanuts and stir until well blended. Bake in a 9 inch square pan in preheated 350 F. oven for about an hour. Be sure to butter baking pan first. Top with following frosting:

Frosting

Two unbeaten eggs; 1 3/4 cups sugar; 6 T. water.

Cook in top of double boiler, stirring constantly. Remove top of boiler from heat and beat mixture with rotary beater until stiff peaks are formed. Cool and spread on top of cool cake. Then have prepared the following topping: 1/3 cup sugar; 1/3 cup water and 1/2 cup soft peanut butter. Beat until smooth and swirl on top of frosting.

Bernice Forrester
(Mrs. R. D.)

Mrs. Forrester was formerly Head Mistress of the Episcopal School for Girls Santa Margareta, Pelotas, Rio Grande do Sul, Brazil, and now resides on Chaparral Road in Carmel Valley. All four donors of these fine recipes are members of St. Dunstan's. Any of the casseroles, plus a tossed green salad, French bread, and one of the desserts and coffee makes a gourmet and satisfying dinner party or Sunday family supper.

Bannisters in Switzerland

The Bannisters continue their travels into Switzerland, Austria and northern Italy.

Our stay in Lucerne was delightful, and we loved our hotel, the Balances-Bellevue. It is one of the oldest in the city, right on the river. In fact, our tour started from our hotel, which is one of the highlights of the city tour. Between the Murrays and Bannisters, I think we cornered the market on watches and clocks! There will be so many chimes chiming and cuckoos cooing, we won't be able to hear the ball game! Had a fun dinner of Fondue Bourguignone at the "Old Lucerne Inn", complete with a "WEIN HABER" in the center of the table. Between cooking our meat and pouring our wine, we were kept pretty busy! We were so impressed with the "WEIN HABER" we each bought one the next day in Innsbruck!

On our way to Innsbruck we stopped in Liechtenstein for lunch where we had a most unusual barbecued pork and beef dish served on a skewer suspended over a wooden plate. Brandy was poured over which ignited a little pot of fuel on the plate so the meat continued to cook at your place. It was delicious, as well as novel, and at least it wasn't SAUERKRAUT! After a one night stay at Innsbruck, with a morning tour, we drove to Salzburg and through the country where "Sound of Music" was made. Truly, that is gorgeous scenery, and it looks just like it did in the movie. We regretted not having more time in Salzburg (like it much better than Innsbruck), but had to drive on as we were staying at St. Wolfgang (out of Salzburg) for the night. This proved to be one of the highlights of the trip, thus far. The "White Horse Inn" is on the shore of a lake away from the usual tourist route. In addition to it's being a story-book spot out of the old Tyrol, we happened on to an evening of entertainment which proved to be delightful. On hearing music coming from the corner "gast haus", we stopped in to listen. Immediately we were seated with another couple (who spoke no English). However, after a few glasses of wine, we were all singing and dancing together, and I'm sure the "Americaines" provided much more entertainment for the localites than we ever expected to!

Unfortunately, this was the wrong night to "live it up" as we had to arise at 5:00 A.M. to drive to Venice. This was the longest trip we had, and actually, it was too long for one day, but we made it! We had to cross the Gross Glockner Pass through the Alps — I'm sure this trip was planned for it's scenic beauty, but I could have done without it! The road was a two lane road with about 40 hairpin turns straight up and then straight down through the highest pass in the Alps! Our Mini-Bus huffed and puffed its way up through rain and snow and then dense fog. I never was so happy to see the summit of a mountain except that I realized we still had to descend! Finally Jacques and I changed seats 'cause I couldn't bear to look over the side. Even my most terrifying moments on the ski slopes were never like this! As we reached the top and started down, Luke muttered something about the brakes. That was all I needed! I'll be anxious to find out how many times Otto (our travel agent) has made the trip, since he recommended it! Anyway, we survived with nothing more serious than frayed nerves, and the loss of about three hours driving time. We're forever grateful to Luke for his good driving and his wonderful patience!

After a picnic lunch beside the road, two border crossings, (where the girls insist on having all our passports stamped each time), a heavy rainstorm, and then a mass of Sunday traffic, we finally made it into Venice an hour and a half late to meet our agent. Amazingly enough, however, he was waiting for us, so once again we started the unloading process. This time all luggage had to be put into a water taxi to get us to our hotel. This was real fun, and we have enjoyed Venice, in spite of the pigeons. We leave tomorrow for Florence (if I ever get to bed — it is now 1:30 A.M.). The trip has been marvelous, the laughs continuous, and as usual we're forever searching for that elusive "leisure time"!

Love to all,
from

Carmelite Artist Alvin Beller Dies

Distinguished watercolor artist, Alvin Beller, who considered Carmel his home, although he actually had lived in Downey, California for the past 20 years, died early last month, it was learned recently.

He, and his wife who survives him, have maintained a studio in Carmel since

Long time member of the Carmel Art Association, where he was accorded one-man shows, a memorial show of his watercolors is being held during May at the Burbank Central Library and at the Downey Savings and Loan Association at Rolling Hills.

New A To Z Rental Center Announces Grand Opening

Householders, do-it-yourselfers, and businessmen in the Pacific Grove, California area will be able to rent everything from A(xes) to Z(xes) at low rental rates beginning May 24.

Manager Charles Pitman announced the grand opening of his A to Z Rental Center at 1169 Forest Avenue, Pacific Grove, on May 24-26.

The center is the newest member of the nationwide, owner-operated A to Z Rental System. Refreshments will be served and there will be a grand prize for all to participate in.

Charles is an "old" Carmelite, as is his father who has worked in the Carmel Post Office for a number of years. The new A-Z Manager graduated from Carmel High School in 1947, after which he attended college at Cal Poly on a football scholarship. He spent four years in the Air Force during the Korean War.

Charles said the center will offer for rental practically all conceivable items used by businessmen and tradesmen, householders and apartment dwellers from axes (everyone knows what they are) to axes (an axlike tool for cutting roofing slate).

The rental-outlet will offer such things as Sanders, power drills, saws, painting equipment, staircases and furniture, dollies, plumber's and mechanic's tools, yard and garden equipment, rug shampooers, TV sets, vacuum cleaners, cribs, highchairs, sports equipment, banquet and party needs, as well as invalid and sickroom equipment.

The new rental center was established to meet community needs underscored by a simple economic fact, Pitman noted. Everyone needs items from time to time. It just doesn't pay to buy because they won't be used with sufficient frequency or for long periods.

Hidden advantages of renting instead of buying, he added, include the elimination of storage when the item is not in use as well as avoiding maintenance of mechanical products.

Pitman, a former fireman with the Redwood City Fire Department, lives with his wife, Barbara, and family at 1431 Via Marettimo, Monterey. He is a Masonic Lodge member and a past president of the Redwood City Firemen's Association.

REPORTS FROM RLS

By Chandler Meloy

Gen. LeMay To Speak Saturday

Gen. Curtis LeMay will be the featured speaker at the annual Father and Son banquet to be held this Saturday in the John Lyon Reid Dining Hall on the campus. Earlier in the day there will be tennis, golf, baseball and swimming matches to pit fathers against sons in athletic contests. In addition to the address by Gen. LeMay there will be athletic awards presented to all who have won letters, plus the most valuable player awards for the year.

There will be a social hosted by Headmaster Ricklefs earlier in the evening, while the Mothers (Sponsors Club) will meet for a party and dinner while the men are at the banquet.

Foy Honored With Other Speakers

Some 40 boys were honored last Wednesday evening at the third annual Forensic Awards Presentation held in the Erdman Memorial Chapel. In addition to remarks of praise for the speakers, Headmaster Ricklefs encouraged the younger students to keep up with their speech activities. Mr. Henri Ledeboer was the guest speaker for the evening, while the program was directed by outgoing Winston Churchill Forensic Club President William Kondrat. Special awards were presented by the club for outstanding contributions in speech to: Mrs. Rita Wilkinson of Alisal High School for her debate and forensic contribution this year in the Pacific Forensic League; to Mr. Edward Brown, Dean of Men at R.L.S. for his use of speech in his profession; and to the Speech club at Santa Catalina School for Girls for their success in starting a speech program this year.

Individual awards have been earned throughout the season, but team Captains for each area of speech were appointed as follows: Varsity debate: Lonnie Foy and Robert Howard; Junior Varsity debate: Ed Scott and Steve Simmons; Oratory: Bruce Decker; Dramatic: Jim Russell; Impromptu: Joel Harris; Extemp: Geoff Haynes; Analysis: Mike Green; Humor: William Kondrat.

The top debate team was Lonnie Foy and Red Howard, with the overall top speaker being Lonnie Foy, State Champion in Impromptu.

Some other records of interest: The team never took lower than second in league competition, winning two tournaments. Eight speakers double winners during the year, taking fifth or better in two events in a tournament: Lonnie Foy, Robert Howard, Bruce Decker, Joel Harris, Jeff Klien, Eric Haas, John Cann and William Kondrat. Four debaters made the finals three or more times to receive the Clarence Darrow Award: Lonnie Foy, Robert Howard, Jack Booth and William Kondrat. Several boys were cited for special attention as members of the "Futures" for their outstanding work as underclassmen: Arlen Chase, John Sharon, Steve Stremmel and Jon Merksam-

Cartoonist O'Neal Draws for Students

Middle School reading students were full of questions for cartoonist Frank O'Neal, Eula Long, author of "The Carmel Dog" and Richard Baumhoff, retired newspaperman, recently of the St. Louis (Post-Dispatch). The conference was organized by Miss Jo Brazell, reading chairman, in connection with career week.

O'Neal told the youngsters that he had submitted cartoons to Saturday Evening Post for two years before having one accepted. He stressed the necessity for education: "You've got to have something to say. It isn't easy to be funny day after day." He went to art school for two years before getting into writing for animated television. Fifteen years ago he moved up here, he said, and submitted three weeks of his cartoon strip "Short Ribs" to 8 syndicates before one used it. Now this strip is printed by 350 dailies and 250 Sunday papers. He has to keep six weeks in advance, and eight weeks ahead for Sundays because of the necessity of doing color plates.

Mrs. Long described the two years of research she did on the dog Old Pal, who died in 1929 and was buried at Forest Theatre, before writing the book about him. She went to the news files of The Carmel Pine Cone, she said, and the editor Marjory Lloyd "opened her heart and the files to me." You have to be a real worker to be a writer, she said.

She also described the procedure involved in submitting illustrations for a book. For one of her books, she did 72 drawings on translucent paper.

Baumhoff, who started at age 18 as a reporter, and rose to be city editor and later general manager, stressed the need to learn English grammar and how to spell. The more you know about anything, political science, history or law, the better prepared you are to write for a paper, he said.

Other speakers who have talked to the students during the past few months include: Ed Therkell, an attorney from Fort Ord on Constitutional Law; Shell Ruskell on the Job Corps; Montgomery Jones on copyrights and plagiarism; Somchai Suwanmanon, a student at MPC on her home country, Thailand; Regina Duggan on her experiences in Moscow and other Russian cities.

Good policy: Don't argue with any of the boys unless you have all the facts. Ask the faculty!

Christian Science Sunday Sermon

"For in him we live, and move, and have our being. . . . This passage from Acts is part of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read Sunday in all Christian Science churches. Subject of the Lesson is "SOUL and BODY."

Also included are relevant selections from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy. Among these are the following lines, "God fashions all things, after His own likeness. Life is reflected in existence. Truth in truthfulness, God in goodness, which impart their own peace and permanence."

carry out an investigation as to the source of the dynamite and fingerprints which might lead to the arrest of the arsonist.

The charge which did the most damage occurred on Atherton drive at about 1:30. The explosion burst the main water pipe distributing water to the downtown area. The water supply was discontinued for over three hours, disrupting several beauty shops, dentist offices and restaurants.

An earlier explosion, at about 1:00 p.m., was at the base of a large pine tree in Carmel Woods. At Junipero and 2nd the explosion threw a 500-pound cement hopper some 20 feet. The concussion and rocks broke windows in surrounding homes.

The Carmel Police Department is working very closely with the FBI in an attempt to apprehend the person who robbed the bank and set the charges.

As a result of the explosion set apparently by the bank robber in Carmel Valley as a diversionary action, the water main on Atherton Drive burst and water to Carmel's downtown commercial district was without water for about three hours. Although the breakage was discovered early enough, it took over an hour for the water to run out so repairs could be made.

After the main was back in order, it took at least another hour for the water to fill the pipes again.
